

Turnkey waste management solutions

Manufacturers of consumer products--shampoo, body wash and conditioner--are often faced with high disposal fees and basic, non-sustainable options for destruction of their process waste. Danox Environmental utilizes off-spec, distressed, out-of-date shampoo, body wash and conditioner waste as base ingredients to manufacturing a variety of industrial products.

Our process delivers a recycling and reuse opportunity unique to the marketplace. Various products or production wastes are brought into our facility, QAd and QCd, processed and then used as components in outbound product blends. Shampoos and body washes are de-packaged and blended into a base product, while conditioners are de-packaged, blended and ultimately used in a base fabric softener blend.

We offer clients recycling and reuse of all the material shipped to us. Our focus on protecting the brand provides your company with 100% brand protection.

Finished goods are processed with a specific method where they are cut, chipped and bailed. No customer label or reference can be seen after processing.
